Accessible JetQuay services with updated prices

Friday, 1 August 2008

A revised pricing schedule from JetQuay is hoped to make the service from Changi Airport in Singapore more cost-effective for passengers.

Since JetQuay charges 'per event', additional value is found for group travel, families or those who are travelling with elderly.

Up to three people in the same flight would pay a maximum charge of SG$250 for a 'Quayside' service through the CIP Terminal, irrespective of how many are travelling.

The standalone CIP Terminal provided by JetQuay is beneficial for passengers due to its secure and private parking, which is complimentary for the traveller's time abroad.

Furthermore, a guest relations officer provides necessary services such as baggage check in, boarding passes and pre-clearance for immigration matters, with a personal chauffeur to the airbridge.

Using the CIP Terminal services only requires check in one hour prior to the flight's scheduled departure time.
